// Our first meeting with Charlie introduced us to the two key principles that he maintained throughout our entire build journey. Firstly, the importance he placed on a strong client relationship. Charlie was on our team from the minute we signed him. He worked with us to ensure our vision was upheld. No ask was too big, he worked tirelessly to ensure we were happy, and he and his team succeeded. Renovating is a tiring, emotional task and yet we thoroughly enjoyed the company of the crew, who were always so conscious of our family.

The second principle was high-quality workmanship. As clients with a strong vision but little to no building expertise, Charlie guided us to achieve a build quality that surpassed our expectations. He brought ideas to the table that enhanced the design, and wouldn't sign off until he was confident in the quality of the workmanship. We specified some particularly challenging finishes and he delivered spectacularly.

We spent 18 months working with the Mylne team on a two-phase build that followed a complex and emotional design journey. They enabled us to reach the finish line with our spirits high and a home that we love; and we wouldn't hesitate to recommend Mylne."
